UNFLAVOURED GREEN, WHITE AND OOLONG TEAS

- Z1 JAPANESE GENMAICHA 790
“Brown rice tea” is the Japanese name for green tea combined with roasted brown rice. The tea has a light yellow hue. Its flavour is mild and combines the fresh grassy flavor of green tea with the aroma of the roasted rice.
- Z2 JAPANESE SENCHA • SUPERIOR 690
The most popular green tea in Japan prized for its high vitamin content, sweetness and superior flavour. Historically prepared by roasting, today Sencha is steam-treated before further processing with hot-air drying and finally pan-frying. A delicious drink before meals.
- Z3 JAPANESE BANCHA 690
Green tea with yellowish green colour and a characteristic bouquet. A delicious drink after meals. Poor in caffeine, so children can drink it, too.
- Z4 PAI MU TAN ("WHITE PEONY") TEA 790
A speciality also in China, this type of white tea was a privilege of the emperors to drink, and only pucelles were allowed to cut the tea leaves with golden scissors. During harvest in the early spring workers select and harvest the best leaves of the batch, as well as the silver buds, by hand. This refreshing tea has very pale green or golden colour and an elegant, spicy taste.
- Z5 CHINESE OOLONG TEA • SE CHUNG 650
This half-fermented Chinese “yellow tea” (vu-lung) occupies an intermediate position between non-fermented green teas and fully fermented black teas. With its sweetish, delicate taste and pleasant smell it has an antioxidant effect and controls blood-sugar level.
- Z6 GUNPOWDER TEA 650
A popular Chinese green tea in which each leaf has been rolled into small bullet-shaped pellets with hand unto this day. It is believed to take its English name from the fact that the tea resembles black powder grains. In Chinese it is called “Pearl Tea”.

ROOIBOS TEAS

- R1 ROOIBOS ORIGINAL 590
A caffeine-free tea, made exclusively of South African Redbush (Aspalathus linearis) leaves. "Rooibos" (the Afrikaans word for "red bush") tea has a distinctive reddish-brown colour and is naturally sweet and slightly nutty. In its homeland it is common to drink it with milk and sugar, but elsewhere usually with a slice of lemon and sugar or honey to sweeten. Rooibos tea is becoming more popular in Western countries, particularly among health-conscious consumers, due to its high level of antioxidants and minerals, and is purported to assist with nervous tension, allergies and digestive problems.
- R2 ROOIBOS VANILLA CARAMEL 590
Rooibos tea of elegant taste, flavoured with lumps of caramel and vanilla.
- R3 ROOIBOS CHOCOLATE MINT 590

OTHER TEAS

- E1 UNFLAVOURED PU-ERH TEA 750
Known also as "red" Chinese tea (completely fermented) with gentle, slightly sweetish smack of the earth. The drink has deep red colour.
Pu-erh is a Chinese specialty, a variety of post-fermented tea produced in Yunnan province. Post-fermentation is a tea production style in which the tea leaves undergo a microbial fermentation process after they are dried and rolled. Drinking Pu-erh tea is purported to reduce blood cholesterol. It is also widely believed to counteract the unpleasant effects of heavy alcohol consumption, and is recognized as a natural slimming tea.
- E2 GINSENG VALLEY 750
Ginseng, mistletoe, bean pods, magnolia, peach, St. John's bread (carob), orange flowers, sanders, birch and nettle leaves, aroma.
Much study has been done on the benefits of ginseng tea and its popularity is increasing. Some people like the stimulating effects of ginseng tea while others use it for improvement in thinking, accelerating reaction time, boosting resistance to viral infections and increasing resistance to the effects of stress. Ginseng tea has shown cancer-preventive effects and may help people with type 2 diabetes control blood sugar levels.
- E3 GINKGO TEA 750
It is made of ginkgo leaves, green tea, some fruits, orange and lemon aroma.
It is the beverage of the forgetful! It has good influence for the blood supply of the brain and improves concentration, mental and sexual potency.
Dear Guests! This tea needs approximately 30 minutes to make!
